

The Eastwood Beacon

Eastwood nurtures positive development in people's lives through the love and teachings of Jesus Christ.

Dec 19, 2018

Occasionally I come across a story that really touches my heart. The following is one of those stories.

"If we can't afford two, we can't afford one."

by Rev. Austin Crenshaw Shelley

My grandfather never questioned the grocery bill. All other expenditures fell subject to his review, but the grocery shopping belonged entirely within my grandmother's domain. Papa had good reason to be frugal. Though we never went hungry, we lived on relatively little inside our 526-square-foot home in rural South Carolina. Under these circumstances, Papa kept a tight grip on the finances, even meting out our weekly contribution to the church—ten dollars for the offering plate, plus one dollar for each grandchild for Sunday school. Our offering was by no means a widow's mite, but neither was it stingy in relation to our family's income.

As far as I know, Papa never discovered the secret my grandmother and I shared. Every Saturday she and I whisked into town in her faded blue Ford Torino. As I pushed our cart up and down the aisles of the Red & White, she carefully selected food in duplicate—two boxes of cereal, two jars of peanut butter, two bags of flour—until our cart looked like an abstract rendering of Noah's ark with its produce and nonperishable food items arranged two by two.

Then we'd check out (an achingly slow process involving a hefty stack of coupons), load the car with heavy paper grocery bags, and drive straight to the town's food bank, where my grandmother would donate exactly half of everything she'd just purchased. She bought my silence each week with a small candy bar, which was not immune to her rule: one chocolate treat for me, one for the food bank.

On one of these grocery trips when I was eight or nine years old, I asked my grandmother for a name-brand cereal I'd seen on a television commercial. "We can't afford that one," she replied without looking up from her list. "We can if we don't buy two of them," I grumbled under my breath. My grandmother's eyes met mine. She put her list down and placed her hands firmly on my shoulders. She measured her words as carefully as my grandfather had measured the dollars for our Sunday offering: "If we can't afford two, we can't afford one."

“If we can’t afford two, we can’t afford one.” Those words have been haunting me. Every time I go to the grocery store, I think about them. Every time I buy an item I wanted but didn’t necessarily need, I think about them. These words have even begun to haunt me at home! I hear them as I stand in my more than adequately filled closet, complaining that I have nothing to wear. I hear them when I open the refrigerator, also more than adequately filled, and think “Nothing looks good.” I hear them as I turn up the thermostat and complain about being cold. Do you suppose God is trying to tell me something?

And then just in case I’m being deliberately thick headed, the parable of the sheep and goats (Mt. 25.31-46) comes to mind. I was hungry, I was thirsty, I was a stranger, I was naked, I was sick, I was in prison. You fed me, gave me a drink, welcomed me, clothed me, took care of me, visited me. My first reaction is to think “I can’t do all of that!” and so I often find myself doing nothing. I suspect I am not the only one who feels so overwhelmed by the needs we see around us that we end up paralyzed.

Perhaps the answer for all of us lies in the fact that we aren’t called to do it all. Paul tells us in Roman 12.6-8 that “We have different gifts, according to the grace given to each of us. If your gift is prophesying, then prophesy in accordance with your faith; if it is serving, then serve; if it is teaching, then teach; if it is to encourage, then give encouragement; if it is giving, then give generously; if it is to lead, do it diligently; if it is to show mercy, do it cheerfully.” In other words, we are called to do what God has called and gifted us to do.

My way of serving may not look like Rev. Austin’s grandmothers however I am confident that God is revealing the way I am to serve. As reluctant as I am to make New Year’s resolutions, this year I am making one. I commit to seeking out what it is God wants me to do and commit to doing it. If you make no other New Year’s resolution this year, I encourage you to do the same.

Pastor Linda

Search Committee Report to the Congregation — November 18, 2018

Your search committee has been working hard over the last month. We have had 2 meetings. The first was our regularly scheduled meeting for November. This prepared us to be able to share with our Regional Executive Minister Steve Bils, what you as a congregation would like to see in a new minister. Our second meeting this month was with Steve. We sat in room 14 while he asked us questions about Eastwood Baptist and the Eastwood Family. We found that these last few months of preparation, the congregational meeting in July, conversations with individuals and groups, surveys, and the completion of our church profile, all came together at this one meeting.

Steve took that information and put it into a computer program that sorted through all of the available minister profiles of the pastors of the American Baptist Churches, USA. This gave us a large total of possibilities. Steve then asked a few more questions and placed those answers into the program. We now have a list of 180 pastors as possible candidates.

Here are the next steps:

Steve Bils is contacting all of the prospects letting them know we are looking for a new pastor. He will be asking them if they are interested in us. This is happening right now.

Once a pastor has told Steve they are interested in us, Steve will gather those profiles and bring that group of profiles to us. This group could be as high as half of the original list. This meeting is scheduled for January 14th. We really don’t expect much activity through Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The search committee will then have the task of looking at each individual packet. This part of the process is the longest step that could take between 3 and 4 months, to do it properly.

As we go through these next steps in our search process we as your search committee will do the best we can to keep you informed of our progress. Please understand that during the next steps we will need to be very careful about confidentiality. So if you ask a question and a search committee member doesn’t share much, we are asking for your understanding.

Please continue to pray for us. We need our eyes, hearts and minds opened to God’s will and God’s direction.

Where our Arrows Roam

Well the end of the year is upon us, and Christmas time is almost here! From Eastwood Baptist Church the staff, leadership, and volunteers we would all like to wish you a very Merry Christmas! I hope it is full of joy, fun, and most importantly, tons of good desserts and candy.

As we near the end of the year there are some things we would like to highlight. Please make sure to pick up a calendar or email me at ebcyouthdirector@gmail.com for a word document calendar. Dear Eastwood Friends and Family,

I am so very grateful for the wonderful time my family and I had with you at my Retirement Dinner. I really appreciate all the well wishes, cards and monetary gifts. The Lasagna dinner was fabulous! Thank you, Sandy Tepper and Fay Rashé, for all your hard work making that delicious feast!

I have loved being your Church Secretary. I truly believe that all of you have given me so much more than I ever gave to you. It has been a privilege to share in your joys and sorrows and to help you in whatever way I was able. I love you all.

Special thanks to those who provided so much help, support and guidance during my time as Eastwood's secretary:

- Pastor Randy for being a friend, mentor and counselor.
- Allan Campbell for always being available to help fold bulletins and many other things.
- Carolyn Dutton for making what could be a tiresome task (preparing the Beacon for mailing) into a fun and joyful time.
- Sam Angulo for making sure my office environment was up to snuff.
- The Deacon board for all their help, instruction and trust.
- All of you for being a loving and caring congregation.

As this next chapter of my life unfolds, I am looking forward to whatever God has in store for me.

With Love and Gratitude,
Sue Becker, Retiree

** SHE BLESSES US AGAIN ****

Recently we received a generous gift from the estate of our dear June Rhoads. She dearly loved the people of Eastwood, and we easily loved her back.

Her wishes were to give the money to the general fund - "no strings attached", knowing that it would be used for God's Glory.

We are truly humbled and blessed by this gift.

Dick Bath, Finance Deacon
